Z Numb. 595

The Daily Courant.

Monday, March 13 1704

From the Leiden Gazette, dated March 18.

Madrid, February 26.

ON the 24th 2 Envoys from the Republick of Genoa arriv'd here, to acquaint the Prince of Vaudemont, that the Reſidents of England, Holland and Savoy, have ſignified to that Republick, that if they give paſſage through their Territories to the Troops and Recruits that are coming from France to reinforce the Army of the 2 Crowns in Italy, they had Orders from their Soveraigns to declare War againſt them.

Leiden, March 18. Letters from Turin of the 29th Ult. ſay, that 12000 Imperialiſts having paſſ'd the Po between Trino and Cazal have made a great Ravage in the Mantuan Montferrat: that ſeveral Gaileys and Galliots had been ſeen off Nice and that the French have caus'd ſome Troops to advance to Anribes, whence 'tis conjectur'd they intend to beſiege or bombard Nice. Whereupon a Regiment is march'd from Turin to reinforce the Garriſon of Nice and another to reinfore that of Coni.

Vienna, March 5. Monſieur Bruyninx, the Miniſter of the States General, went hence Yeſterday to Presburg; to offer the Hungarian Rebels the Mediation and Guaranty of England and Holland. He has a Paſs from Count Berezeni, who appears very well inclin'd to treat with him; and there is great Hopes of a ſpeedy Accomodation. Mr. Stepny, the Engliſh Envoy, whoſe Arrival is hourly expected, will follow the Dutch Miniſter, and 'tis believ'd will contribute very much to the happy concluſion of this Affair.

From the Harlem Courant, dated March 18.

Breſlau, March 4. The 28th. Ult. the Princes James and Conſtantine Sobieski went from hence in a Coach and within a League of this Place were ſtop'd by 30 Saxon Horſe: Collonel Wrangel who commanded this Party rode up to the Coach with his Piſtol cock'd and told the Princes he had Orders from the King of Poland to ſeize them and if they made any reſiſtance to ſhoot them: Notwithſtanding which Prince Conſtantine fir'd at him, but miſs'd him; whereupon a Saxon Officer demanded loudly Who it was that had fir'd? a Servant of Prince James's anſwering it was He, the Officer ſhot him into the Shoulder, but the Wound is not Dangerous: then the Princes were taken by force out of the Coach, ſet on Horſeback and carry'd off.

From the Leiden Gazette, dated March 18.

Warſaw, March 3. Prince Alexander Sobieski having given advice to the Cardinal Primate and the Congreſs of the Confederates, of the Siezing of his 2 Brothers and their being carry'd Priſoners to Leipſick, put them into a great Conſternation, and they are to deliberate about it tomorrow. The Cardinal Primate being inform'd of the King of Poland's having communicated ſome intercepted Letters of his to the Council of Senators at Cracow, and of their having paſs'd ſome vigorous Reſolutions thereupon, has thought fit to aſſure the Congreſs here that thoſe Letters are all forg'd.

Leipſick, March 8. The Princes James and Conſtantine Sobieski continue Priſoners in our Citadel; but are well treated ſuitably to their Quality by order from Court. Prince James is extreamly concern'd that his Papers are taken from him, and offer'd 10000 Ducats to the Leader of the Party that ſeiz'd him, for leave to tear one particular Letter; but in vain.

Paris, March 6. Two days ago the King took a Review of the Troops of his Houſehold in the Plain of Ouille, (the Marſhals de Villeroy and Boufflers attending him) and order'd them to march to Flanders. Accordingly the French Guards are already on their way to the Rendezvous appointed for the Grand Army near Tirlemont. The Swiſs Guards, and the 4 Regiments of the Guards du Corps, will follow them the 7th, 8th and 9th inſtant, and the reſt will ſet forward the 10th. Beſides the grand Army that is to draw together at Tirlemont, a Body of 10000 Men is to act ſeparately in Flanders. and another of like Force in the Condros, to make a Diverſion about Limburg, which is deſign'd to be attack'd. When the Marſhal de Tallard took leave of the King to go to Strasbourg, his Majeſty ſaid openly, that the Army that Marſhal was going to command, would paſs the Rhine on an Enterprize that would be as much talk'd of as the Junction of the Forces with the Bavarians laſt Year. We impatiently expect the next Letters from Spain, to learn the Iſſue of the Inſurrection begun in the Aſturias and ſpread as far as the Mountains of Arragon, in favour of the Houſe of Auſtria. The Duke of Havre, a Grandee of Spain, and Collonel of the King of Spain's Regiment of Flemiſh Guards, is arriv'd here from Flanders, with the Marqueſs of Risbourg: and to day they will purſue their Journey to Spain, whither they are commanded to ſerve in the Army againſt Portugal. The Sieur d'Arennes is arriv'd here from Cazal, with Advice, that the Germans have ſent Troops to the Mountains of Genoa, to endeavour to hinder our Recruits from joyning the Army; whereupon the Duke of Vendome has likewiſe detach'd 6000 Men, to obſerve thoſe Germans: He reports, that the Republick of Genoa (at the inſtance of the Miniſters of the Confederates) ſcruple to grant our Troops free paſſage thro' their Territories. The Marſhals Villeroy and Villars are here ſtill, but their Baggage is gone for Flanders.

Paris, March 9. 'Tis talk'd the Duke of Burgundy will make the Campaign; that the King has ſent Orders for beſieging Nice; And that the Court has receiv'd an Expreſs from Bayonne, which adviſes that the Confederate Fleet with King Charles III. of Spain, had been ſeen off Cape Finiſter; and confirms, that there is an Inſurrection in the Mountains of the Aſturias, in Biſcay, and in Arragon, in favour of his ſaid Catholick Majeſty.

From the Paris Gazette a la Main, dated March 10.

Paris, March 10. We have Advice from Italy, that the Grand Prior was to begin the Siege of Revere on the Secchia the 6th inſtant. They write from Thoulon, that the Forces that are to recruit the Regiments in Italy, began to embark the 26th of laſt Month, and that they are to land at St. Pietro d'Arena, the Suburbs of Genoa. They have Advice at Court, that the King of Spain ſet out from Madrid the 1ſt of this Month to go to his Army. The Naval Preparations in our ſeveral Ports of the Ocean and the Mediterranean are carried on with great Diligence; and 'tis reported the Marſhal de Chateaurenault and the Marqueſs du Roye will command in the Mediterranean; and the Count de Thouloufe, the Marſhal de Coeuvres, and the Marqueſs de Villette will command the Fleet and ſeparate Squadrons that are to act in the Ocean.

Hague, March 18. Yeſterday General Coehorn died here.

London,

London, March 12. To day arriv'd a Mail from Lisbon, by which we have the following Advice; and are inform'd beſides, that Admiral Leake, with the Tranſports under his Convoy, is arriv'd ſafe in the Tagus.

Lisbon, Feb. 29. O.S. The Fleet under the Command of Sir George Rooke, having the K. of Spain on board, arriv'd on Friday the 25th inſt. in the River of Lisbon. His Catholick Majeſty was ſaluted with a Diſcharge of the Guns from all the Forts as he paſs'd by, and the Admiral came to an Anchor near the Caſtle of Belem. The Amirante of Caſtille and ſeveral Perſons of Quality went on board immediately to wait on his Majeſty, and the next day the King of Portugal ſent the Duke of Canales to compliment his Majeſty upon his arrival, and to notifie to him the unwelcome News of the Death of the Infanta Donna Thereſa his Majeſty's eldeſt Daughter, who died of the Small-Pox on the 16th inſtant N. S. The Matter of the Ceremonial being then adjuſted, and the following day being Sunday, the 27th Preparations were made for the Landing of his Catholick Majeſty, and in order thereto the Flag with moſt of the Men of War mov'd further up the River and drop'd Anchor before the City of Lisbon. In the Afternoon the King of Portugal came in his Barge on board the Royal Katharine, the King of Spain receiv'd him upon the Stairs coming into the Ship, and gave him the right hand into the great Cabin, where they had ſome Conference, and after that return'd with him to the Barge, in which they went together on ſhore, the whole Fleet firing and the Forts on both ſides of the River; upon landing the King of Portugal gave his Catholick Majeſty the right hand, and conducted him in that manner to the Palace where an Entertainment was prepar'd for his Catholick Majeſty, the King of Portugal, and the Prince of Brazil ſat at Table on his Majeſty's left hand. The general Joy on this occaſion was expreſs'd by Illuminations and Fire-works that have been continued for three Nights.

The Forces continue ſtill on board.
